

PEOPLE CONTINUE TO PROTEST

People Protesting

People across the U.S. and around the world are continuing to protest. They started protesting after the death of George Floyd. George died after a police officer hurt him in Minneapolis, Minnesota. George was an African American man and the police officer is a white man. People are very sad, angry and frustrated. People are protesting because they want change. Many of the people protesting say some police officers are not fair to African Americans. Many of the people want everyone to be treated fairly and are protesting to tell everyone to be fair.

People Protesting

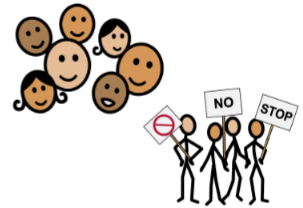

Many people and police officers want the protests to be peaceful. Some people and police officers are protesting together. People at the protests may carry signs, march in the streets and chant. Some people do not want the protests to be peaceful. Some people are burning buildings and looting stores. People are protesting in many U.S. cities. The protests started in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and are now in other cities including Washington, D.C.; Los Angeles, California; New York City, New York; Atlanta, Georgia; Louisville, Kentucky; Seattle, Washington and many more. Some cities have curfews to help people be safe. People are not allowed to go outside during curfews.

WHAT

PEOPLE CONTINUE TO PROTEST

People across the U.S. continue to protest.

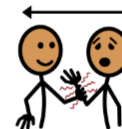

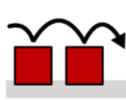

Some people around the world are protesting too.

They are protesting after the death of George Floyd.

George died after a police officer hurt him.

People are very sad and angry.

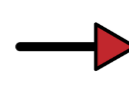

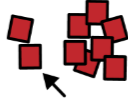

George Floyd was an African American man.

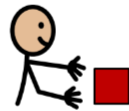

The police officer is a white man.

People say some police are not fair to African Americans.

Many people want everyone to be treated fairly.

Many people are protesting to tell everyone to be fair.

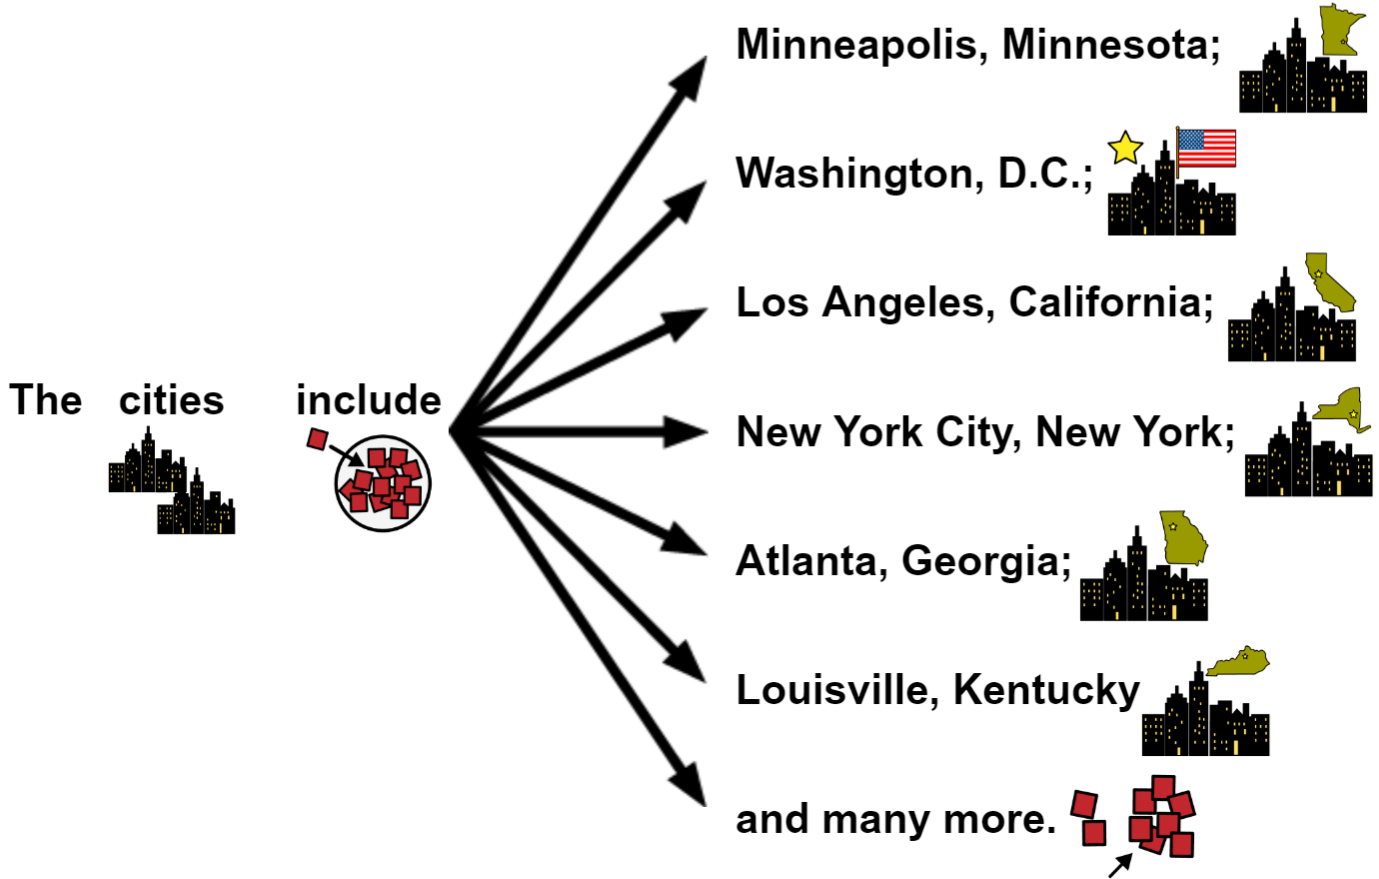

Many people and police want the protests to be peaceful.

Some people and police are protesting together.

Some people do not want the protests to be peaceful.

Some people are burning buildings and looting stores.

People are protesting in many U.S. cities.

Some cities have curfews to help people be safe.

People are not allowed to go outside during curfew.

1. WHAT are people doing to tell everyone to be fair ?

protesting

reading

sleeping

2. WHAT do some cities have to help people be safe ?

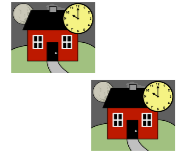

football games

parties

curfews

3. WHERE are people protesting ?

cities

oceans

Moon

