

PROTESTS IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

People Protesting in Front of the Capitol Building

People are protesting in Washington, D.C. These people are upset about the presidential election. They are upset President Donald Trump lost. They want him to remain president. Some people at the protest became violent. These people broke into the Capitol Building. The Capitol Building is where some government leaders work. These government leaders are called Congresspeople. On January 6, Congresspeople were working to confirm the votes for the presidential election when the people broke into the Capitol Building. Police officers are trying to keep people safe. They helped Congresspeople get to safe places.*

*This is a developing story. Keep an eye on Breaking News for updated information.

Photo Credit: Associated Press/John Minchillo

WHAT

PROTESTS IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

People are protesting in Washington, D.C.

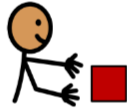

These people are upset about the presidential election.

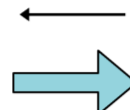

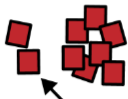

They are upset President Trump lost.

They want President Trump to remain president.

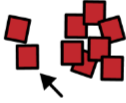

Some people at the protest became violent.

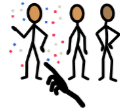

Some people broke into the Capitol Building.

Government leaders were working in the Capitol Building.

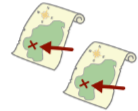

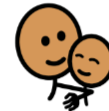

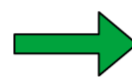

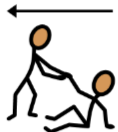

They were working to confirm the votes for the election.

Police officers are trying to keep people safe.

They helped government leaders get to safe places. *

*This is a developing story. Keep an eye on Breaking News for updated information.

1. WHAT did people break into ?

White House

Capitol Building

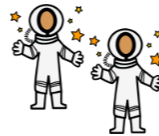

Statue of Liberty

2. WHO were working in the Capitol Building ?

astronauts

farmers

government leaders

3. WHERE are people protesting ?

Honolulu, Hawaii

Washington, D.C.

Anchorage, Alaska

